RUM

The modern rum was born in the 17th century in the Caribbean by the African slaves themselves who cultivated the sugar cane, and were the first to discover the molasses. The first rum was obtained by this byproduct, resulting from the refining of sugar and its fermentation. Simply called Rum, derived from the Spanish word "ron" and the French "Rhum."

WHISKY

The first record of barley and rye distillate dates back to the Celts. Considered a gift from the gods, as it revives the dead, in addition to warming the body and should during the cold winters. The name Whisky means "uisge beatha" in Gaelic, and "water of life" in Spanish. For its almost magical reviving properties, or its pure special flavor and aroma, this precious elixir has come a long way.

TEQUILA

As legend has it, during an electrical storm a lightning bolt struck a field of agaves and caused a fire, where vapors heated the agave balls, causing them to produce a sweet honey with a pleasant aroma that caught the native's attention. They discovered that when fermented, it had relaxing powers and euphoric effects when drinking it.
